The Petitioner is the father of the Suspect named in the Petition. The Petitioner filing this Application has invoked the jurisdiction of this Court to grant bail to the Suspect upon suitable condition as this Court considers appropriate.

The Suspect was produced in the case bearing No. B/76/23 in the Magistrate Court of Negombo on 13.09.2023.

According to the B report filed in the Magistrate Court of Negombo, the Suspect in this case was arrested by the police officers attached to the Police Narcotics Bureau of Katunayake Branch on 12.09.2023.

The Customs officers at the Bandaranayake International Airport received an information about receipt of a parcel via the Sri Lanka Airlines airplane bearing No. UL 504 on 22.08.2023. Having checked the parcel, the Customs' officers found some substance packed in a black coloured rubber horse. As the substances reacted for Cocaine, the Custom officers had retained the parcel and notified the receiver of the parcel for collection. Upon the notice, the Suspect had come to collect the parcel without any authority as the parcel was addressed to a person called Mohamed Fazal Sameer.

On the same day, i.e., 12.09.2023 the Suspect had returned to the Customs with some documents to claim the parcel. As planned earlier, the Suspect was arrested by the officers of the Police Narcotics Bureau, Katunayake Branch and produced him before the Negombo Magistrate Court. Thereafter, The Substance was weighed at the Police Narcotics Bureau and it weighed 02.504 Kilograms of Cocaine.

The Suspect was produced under Sections 54A (b), (c) and (d) of the Poisons, Opium and Dangerous Drugs Ordinance No.17 of 1929.

The substances recovered from the Suspect had been sent to the Government Analyst Department. According to the Government Analyst Report, 660.2 grams of pure Cocaine detected in the parcel recovered from the Suspect.

According to the Petitioner, the Accused vehemently denies the charges levelled against him. The Accused takes up the position that this a fabricated case against him by the police.

The Petitioner has pleaded following exceptional circumstances in support of this Bail Application.

1. Extended incarceration of 23 months could cause irreparable damage to the Suspect.
2. Cocaine was not found in the Suspect's possession.
3. The Accused is the sole breadwinner of the family.
4. The Accused is a father of a 11-year old female child and he is a divorcee.

The Counsel for the Petitioner submits that the Suspect is in remand for nearly 23 months. Considering the facts and the circumstances of this case, the Petitioner states that the prosecution will not be able to establish a prima facie case against the Suspect.

According to the Learned State Counsel, the Suspect had been indicted in the High Court of Negombo.

The Section 83 of the Poison, Opium and Dangerous Drugs Act which was amended by Act No. 41 of 2022 states:

83. (1) Subject to the provisions of sections 84, 85 and subsection (2) of this section, a person suspected or accused of an offence under sections 54A and 54B of this Ordinance, shall not be released on bail by the High Court except in exceptional circumstances.

(2) Notwithstanding the provisions of sections 84 and 85, a person suspected or accused of an offence under subsection (1) of section 54A and section 54B-

- (a) of which the pure quantity of the dangerous drug, trafficked, imported, exported, or possessed is ten grammes or above in terms of the report issued by the Government Analyst under section 77A; and shall not be released on bail except by the Court of Appeal in exceptional circumstances.

(b) which is punishable with death or life imprisonment, shall not be released on bail except by the Court of Appeal in exceptional circumstances.

(3) For the purpose of this section “dangerous drug” means Morphine, Cocaine, Heroin and Methamphetamine.

Exceptional circumstances are not defined in the statute. Hence, what is exceptional circumstances must be considered on its own facts and circumstances on a case by case.

In Ramu Thamodarampillai v. The Attorney General [2004] 3 SLR 180 the court held that:

“the decision must in each case depend on its own peculiar facts and circumstances”.

In Labyndarage Nishanthi v. Attorney General CA (PHC) APN 48/2014 the court held that:

“It is trite law that any accused or suspect having charged under the above act will be admitted to bail only in terms of section 83(1) of the said Act and it is only on exceptional circumstances. Nevertheless, it is intensely relevant to note, the term ‘Exceptional circumstances’ has not been explained or defined in any of the Statutes. Judges are given a wide discretion in deciding in what creates a circumstance which is exceptional in nature.

There is plethora of cases in the legal parlor which had identified what creates an ‘exceptional circumstances’ in relation to granting bail...”

The Learned Counsel for the Petitioner contended that the Suspect has been in remand for nearly 23 months. Hence, invite this Court to consider this as an exceptional circumstance.

Period in remand custody cannot be considered as an exceptional circumstance in all case. It has to be decided on a case-by-case basis to consider whether the remand period already spent could be considered as an exceptional circumstance.

In Ashani Dhanushshika v. Attorney General [CA (PHC) APN 04/2016] the court held that:

“ In the present case the petitioner failed to establish any exceptional circumstances warranting this court to exercise the revisionary jurisdiction. The petitioner’s first point is that the suspect is in remand nearly for two years. The intention of the legislature is to keep in remand any person who is suspected or accused of possessing or trafficking heroin until the conclusion of the case. The Section 83(1) of the Act expresses the intention of the legislature...”

In Carder v. Officer-in-Charge, Narcotics Bureau (2006) 3 SLR 74 the court held that:

“ ...Provision has been made in the Bail Act to release persons on bail if the period of remand extends more than 12 months. No such provision is found in the case of Poison, Opium and Dangerous Drugs Ordinance. Although bail was granted in some of the cases mentioned above, none of these cases refer to the time period in remand as constituting an exceptional circumstance. Hence bail cannot be considered on that ground alone.

According to the decisions cited above, the period spent in the remand custody cannot be considered as an exceptional circumstance in this case.

Further, the Counsel for the Petitioner contended that the prosecution will not succeed in securing a conviction against the Suspect due to the presentation of inadmissible evidence against the Suspect. Hence, he strenuously argued that the Suspect should be released on bail.

I am not inclined to accept this argument as a suspect can only be released on bail under the Poisons, Opium and Dangerous Drugs Act as amended upon successful demonstration of that he has exceptional circumstances to be released on bail.

Further, facts of this case do not constitute exceptional circumstances. Issues pertaining to the case should only be considered at the trial stage.

In the case of A.K.Nandasena v. The Attorney General CA(PHC) APN 147/2017 the court held that:

“...that facts of a case do not constitute exceptional circumstances and such issues need to be addressed at the trial stage.”

Hence, the facts of the case will not be addressed in considering this bail application.

In this case the pure quantity of the Cocaine detected in the production by the Government Analyst is 660.2 grams.

Further, the delay nearly 23 months in remand does not fall into the category of excessive and oppressive delay considering the circumstances of this case as the offences committed under Sections 54A(b) (c) and 54A(d) of the Poisons Opium and Dangerous Drugs Ordinance as amended by the Act No.13 of 1984 and Act No. 41 of 2022.

The Suspect has 11 previous convictions which are connected to similar kind of possession of dangerous drugs.

Considering all the materials placed before this court, the Petitioner has failed to adduce that the Suspect has exceptional circumstances to free the Suspect on bail. Hence, this bail application is refused.

The Registrar of this Court is directed to send this order to the High Court of Negombo and the officer-in-Charge of the Police Narcotics Bureau, Cololbo-01.
